RADIANT ORIGENS

World Setting

For millennia, the citizens of Homeworld have found solace when turning to the sky and gazing upon their silent guardian, the Grand Archive. Aetherically anchored above the mountains of Serra Idaeia, myriad legends surround the structure, but the bards' most requested song concerns the angels that walk—and fly—alongside mortals. They sing of a time long, long before the Age of Man, when angels followed the flow of the Universal Leyline in search of “Eden.” When they reached the focal point of existence, they found a world to call home. One need only gaze upon the city of Vanele to believe in this myth, for the ancient home of gods and angels mirrors that of the Grand Archive's mysterious designs.

Conflict

The summer solstice has come, and another Revelfest has overtaken every city in the Homeworld. As the descendants of ancient Champions, the people love to celebrate the strength and glory of their gods and heroes—past, present, and future. Whether it be in the arena or in parades, all are eager to prove the unquestionable power of those blessed by the Grand Archive. Yet, as they partake in the festivities, dark forces plot in the shadows. Perhaps the people of the Homeworld have begun to take for granted their claim to the gifts of the Grand Archive...

Pantheon

In this land where divine energy flows freely and mortals can attain godhood, what defines someone's strength? This question has haunted both divine and mortal heroes since the dawn of the Age of Man, and so the gods bid their Champions to find out in the arena—to make their mark among the Pantheon! As the heroes fight, there are many who look upon their battles: spectators who merely enjoy the show; those who fear the upstarts and plot their demise; and benevolent gods who grant them blessings, hoping to preserve humanity's bright future. The Champions must find the measure of their strength should they wish to rise up the ranks and become a worthy contender for a god's seat.

ORIGINS

Mordred Re:Collection, Aurelian Regent

Arrogant and haughty, Mordred made more enemies than allies when he first set foot in Cambria. His sharp tongue and refusal to yield repelled many, yet none could deny the ferocity of his work ethic or the brilliance of his blade. He climbed through Cambria's ranks with brute force, rising despite the scorn that followed his every step. However, there was one who could see past his thorned exterior: Gildas.

Some claim Mordred saved Gildas, but he would insist it was Gildas who saved him. He abandoned the pursuit of godhood, leaving the Grand Archive's halls behind and remaining in Cambria for the sake of the woman who had seen the true him. Now, Mordred serves as the Fairy King, with Gildas at his side—his ambition tempered not by defeat, but by love.

Each Re:Collection features a magnetic storage box that contains:

- A pre-constructed 60-card main deck and 12-card material deck
- A set of matching 100ct. Dragon Shield art sleeves
- A set of cards completing the playsets for your pre-constructed deck
- A chance for a randomly inserted non-champion CSR card
- A damage counter
